- 1. This is an action for patent infringement under the patent laws of the United States, 35 U.S.C. § 271, et seq.
- 2. Kim Kardashian West is the highest-paid reality television star; with an estimated ability to earn more than $50 million annually. In addition to her television viewers, Ms. West has more than 165 million highly engaged social followers across Twitter, Facebook, and Instagram. The sheer size of her audience appeals to business brands and translates to Ms. West's company, Kimsaprincess Inc., commanding hundreds of thousands of dollars, if not millions of dollars, per product endorsement. Simply being endorsed by an influencer like Ms. West leads to numerous sales regardless of whether or not the endorsed product infringes the intellectual property rights of others.
- 3. At issue, here in this action are "selfies" (i.e., photographs that one has taken of oneself) and Ms. West's endorsement of LuMee branded selfie cases, which infringe United States Patent No. 8,428,644. Selfie cases are smartphone cases that provide bright, even lighting for capturing photos or video. Ms. West has been called the "queen of selfies" by The New York Times; in fact, Ms. West has written a coffee table photobook, entitled Selfish, featuring various selfies of herself. In addition to endorsing infringing LuMee cases (as shown below left), Ms.

West also uses them in her self-promotion (as shown above right). Much of her influential empire has been built through selfies and infringing selfie cases. Based on Ms. West's endorsement and social influence, LuMee distributors such as Urban Outfitters have benefitted financially through increased sales of the LuMee selfie cases. And Ms. West's endorsement is not a shill; she is also an "official" partner with LuMee and has designed cases for LuMee. Ms. West has made selfies a pop culture phenomenon. LuMee's founder, Mr. Allan Shoemaker, with respect to Ms. West's promotion in January of 2016, is quoted as saying "she certainly moves the needle" and "we doubled the sales from 2015 in one month." See "Lumee's Founder on What Happens When Your Product is Endorsed by Kim Kardashian," Fashionista, June 16, 2017.

4. However, Ms. West's endorsement and her (as well as Urban Outfitters' and Lumee's) pecuniary gain have come at the expense of Plaintiffs – patent infringement. Mr. Hooshmand Harooni, the inventor of the '644 patent, is the true pioneer and innovator of illuminated selfie cases, not LuMee nor Mr. Shoemaker. Ms. West's infringing influence has unfairly deterred competition from Harooni's licensee, Plaintiff Snaplight, which possesses exclusive rights to enforce the '644 patent. Despite having superior, patented products, it has been extremely difficult for Snaplight to compete in the selfie case market against Ms. West's product influence and Defendants' ongoing infringement. Snaplight and Mr. Harooni have suffered financially as a result. Accordingly, Snaplight requests the Court to level the playing field by, among other things, enjoining Ms. West from further promoting and using, patent infringing selfie cases and by compensating Snaplight, and hence Mr. Harooni, for the tens of millions of dollars in damages incurred because of Ms. West's and Urban Outfitters' infringement.

THE PARTIES

- 5. Snaplight is a California limited liability corporation with its principal place of business located at 1780 La Costa Meadows Drive 100, San Marcos, California 92078.
- 6. Involuntarily Plaintiff Mr. Hooshmand Harooni is an individual whose principle place of business is located at 3010 E. Olympic Blvd., Los Angeles, California 90023. Mr. Harooni is named as an involuntary plaintiff because he has expressed an unwillingness to participate in litigation. Mr. Harooni is the owner of the '644 patent and may have an interest therein.

- 7. Snaplight is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that Kimsaprincess is a California corporation with its principal place of business located at 21731 Ventura Boulevard, Suite 300, Woodland Hills, California 91364.
- 8. Snaplight is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that Urban Outfitters is a Pennsylvania corporation with its principal executive office located at 5000 S. Broad Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19112.
- 9. Snaplight is ignorant of the true names and capacities of the parties sued herein as DOES 1 through 10, inclusive, whether individual, corporate or otherwise, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Snaplight will seek leave to amend the complaint to assert their true names and capacities when they have been ascertained. Snaplight is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that all defendants sued herein as DOES 1 through 10 are in some manner responsible for the acts and omissions alleged herein.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

- 10. This Court has original and exclusive subject matter jurisdiction over this action under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1338(a) because Snaplight's claim for patent infringement arises under the laws of the United States, 35 U.S.C. § 271, et seq.
- 11. This Court has personal jurisdiction over Kimsaprincess because it resides in this District and has a continuous, systematic and substantial presence in this District, because it regularly conducts business and/or solicits business within this District, because it has committed and continues to commit patent infringement in this District, including without limitation by endorsing infringing products to consumers in this District and by purposefully directing activities at residents of this District, and by placing endorsements of infringing products into the stream of commerce with the knowledge that such infringing products would be sold in California and this District, which acts form a substantial part of the events giving rise to Snaplight's claims.
- 12. This Court has personal jurisdiction over Urban Outfitters because it has a continuous, systematic and substantial presence in this District, because it regularly conducts business and/or solicits business within this District, because it has committed and continues to commit patent infringement in this District, including without limitation by selling and offering for sale infringing products to consumers in this District and by purposefully directing activities at residents of this District, and by placing infringing products into the stream of commerce with the knowledge that such products would be sold in California and this District, which acts form a substantial part of the events giving rise to Snaplight's claims.

13. Venue is proper in this District under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391 and 1400(b) because Kimsaprincess resides in this District and has a continuous, systematic and substantial presence in this District, because it regularly conducts business and/or solicits business within this District, because it has committed and continues to commit patent infringement in this District, including without limitation by endorsing infringing products to consumers and/or retailers in this District and by purposefully directing activities at residents of this District, and by endorsing products into the stream of commerce with the knowledge that such products would be sold in California and this District, which acts form a substantial part of the events giving rise to Snaplight's claims; because Urban Outfitters has a regular and established place of business within this District through its many retail stores, because it has committed and continues to commit patent infringement in this District, including without limitation by selling and offering for sale infringing products to consumers in this District and by purposefully directing activities at residents of this District, and by placing infringing products into the stream of commerce with the knowledge that such products would be sold in California and this District, which acts form a substantial part of the events giving rise to Snaplight's claims.

GENERAL ALLEGATIONS

- 14. On April 23, 2013, the United States Patent and Trademark Office (PTO) duly and lawfully issued United States Patent No. 8,428,644, entitled "Integrated Lighting Accessory and Case for a Mobile Phone Device" ("the '644 patent"). Involuntary Plaintiff Harooni is the owner of the '644 patent, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made part of this Complaint.
- 15. By the terms of an agreement made effective as of January 31, 2017, between Harooni and Snaplight, Snaplight obtained exclusive rights to the '644 patent including

25. It has been reported that Ms. West employs an on-call professional Instagram selfie editor at a rate of $100,000 per year.

- 26. Urban Outfitters, by and through its agents, officers, directors, resellers, retailers, employees and servants, has been and is currently infringing the '644 patent by using, offering to sell, selling, exporting and importing into the United States the Accused Products, which embody one or more claims set forth in the '644 patent.
- 27. For example, the accused LuMee Duo product meets all the limitations set forth in claim 1 of the '644 patent. A chart identifying specifically where each limitation of claim 1 is found in the LuMee Duo is attached hereto as Exhibit B. This infringement chart is based on Snaplight's current understanding of the LuMee Duo, which only considers publicly available information. The chart does not set forth all of Snaplight's infringement theories the LuMee Duo embodies other claims set forth in the '644 patent.
- 28. Snaplight reserves the right to amend or supplement its infringement theories upon more information becoming available through formal discovery and/or this Court completing its claim construction proceedings.
- 29. The LuMee Duo case is arguably most famous for its biggest proponent: Ms. West. The case started popping up in Ms. West's Instagrams in 2015 and she officially partnered with LuMee in early 2016.
- 30. On information and belief, Ms. West shares in the profits of LuMee or receives a royalty on the sales of the Accused Products.
- 31. Defendants' acts of infringement were undertaken without permission or license from Harooni and/or Snaplight.
- 32. Snaplight is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that Defendants' infringement of the '644 patent will continue unless enjoined by this Court.
- 33. But for Defendants' infringement, Snaplight would have sold its illuminated selfie cases to all of Defendants' customers or a substantial portion thereof, and Snaplight is entitled to its lost profits.
